Family Involvement Research and Tools

At the most recent Migrant Program in-service at Green Lake, there were several references on engaging migrant students for success. One of the strategies for success is to build a welcoming community. Many of you are building relationships with your migrant students, just like the story of Lorena at Wautoma.

Some other resources and tools can be found through the Harvard Family Research Project's Family Involvement Network of Educators. They have provided several websites and resources to promote family engagement with young Latinos.
